

Vangelis Pappas is a Biologist with postgraduate studies in Ecological Environmental Management in Germany.

He is a Manager and Administrator of the company OIKOM LTD since its foundation in 2007.

He has participated as a contractor and / or expert in more than 40 Special Environmental Studies and Management Plans of Protected Areas and in more than 100 Environmental Impact Studies and Special Ecological Assessments. In addition, it has participated and coordinated a large number of national and Community programs for monitoring, management and promotion of protected areas as well as environmental awareness and interpretation actions. He has also coordinated environmental interpretation projects on nature, culture and production (museums and information centers, routes).

He was a founding partner and manager of the company OIKOS - Natural Environment Management Ltd. (1995-2014).

He has worked as a Consultant of Local Government Bodies in the Hellenic Society of Local Development and Local Government (1988-1997) in which he was head of the Department of Environmental and Natural Resources Management.